Congratulations to the first class of the 21st century. You are about to leave the comforts of home and school and emerge into a world filled with exciting challenges and opportunities. To fully realize your potential to succeed in a rapidly changing environment it is important that you continue your education, enhance your skills and prepare yourself for what seem to be almost daily changes. Your world is much different than that of your parents. Things for us moved more slowly; today change is rapid and the need to continually develop and enhance skills is crucial.

A final message we try to pass on is to encourage you not to lose sight of the importance of service. Some of you will receive special recognition for hours dedicated to others. Some have yet to hear the call; that is, by giving to others we enrich our own lives. May each of you find some way to make life better for your family, friends, your community and country. It is in doing so that we enrich ourselves.

Good luck!
